CITY TRUSTEES

Special Meeting Saturday Evening—City Treasurer and City Attorney Resign—After the Water Companies

Special Meeting.

In pursuance to call by chairman the trustees met in special session Saturday evening last to consider the resignation of Mr. F. L. Church as city treasurer; his resignation having been received to take effect in thirty days. Trustee Watson offered a resolution which was adopted, appointing a deputy tax and license collector.

Board adjourned.

Regular Meeting.

Monday evening, all members present except Chairman White, Trustee Anderson acting as chairman pro tem. The list of demands presented was brief. The matter of final settlement of tax collector's accounts was referred to the finance committee. In regard to installation of an electric motor at Third and Verdugo road, the committee requested further time. A motion was adopted requesting citizens to notify the trustees promptly in all cases where the water supply is cut off without previous notice, a number of complaints having been received in regard to the water companies' action in this matter. The police and sanitary committee was requested to examine the reservoirs and make recommendations in regard to same.

The city attorney instructed the board to the effect that it is their duty to receive competitive bids for construction of city hall. The fire marshal reported having changed fire hydrants on Sixth street as requested. The matter of paying bill of Sunset Telephone Co. for telephone furnished city marshal referred to finance committee. The matter of having telephone numbers of fire chief placed in prominent place in telephone directory referred to fire and public safety committee.

The resignation of City Attorney Muehlman was presented to the board and the same was placed on file to be taken up when the matter of a successor shall be determined. Trustee Watson offered a resolution authorizing a notice inviting proposals to purchase city hall and library site bonds, which was adopted.

A communication was received from the chairman of the library board finance committee recommending that demand number 2588 in the sum of $71.80 be cancelled; and on motion this action was taken.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

A business meeting of unusual interest was enjoyed by the club members Tuesday afternoon. The nominating committee for next year's officers was appointed, following which a straw vote was cast by the members present. The business meeting was followed by a program given under the auspices of the Philanthropic committee of which Mrs. Charles Hutchinson is chairman.

The speakers of the afternoon were Mrs. Katherine Heineman of Pasadena, who dealt with the George Junior Republic; Mrs. General Viele of Los Angeles on the Children's Hospital; Mrs. Yaw of Los Angeles, a representative of the King's Daughters Day Nursery, and Mrs. Ellen Vance of the Working Boys' Home. Each address contained many points of interest and was heard by a thoroughly appreciative audience. Mr. E. B. Valentine of Los Angeles played two violin solos, and Mrs. H. E. MacMullen contributed several delightful vocal solos. The afternoon was closed by a pleasant social hour during which Mrs. Shropshire, Mrs. Meeker, Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Grosvenor served afternoon tea.

The hall was handsomely decorated with potted palms, ferns and pink azaleas.

PASSING OF A PIONEER.

Mr. E. W. Richardson of Tropico, a pioneer of this section, who had spent about forty years of his life in Tropico, died suddenly last Saturday morning. He had been suffering for about a week, but not confined to bed. He was alone at the moment that the end came, having just laid down the volume he was reading "Science and Health" and risen to go to the bathroom when he fell over unconscious. The funeral took place Monday afternoon, there being a large number of friends and relatives in attendance. The services were conducted by the Christian Scientists, of which sect Mrs. Richardson is an active member. The active pall bearers were his old neighbors and friends as follows: J. A. Logan, E. D. Goode, A. T. Stone, D. Griswold, W. R. Light and W. H. Bullis. Named as honorary pall bearers were John Hobbs, A. Stevenson, Robert Devine, P. Gabaig, D. Campbell, N. C. Burch.

The deceased leaves a widow and five children, the eldest of whom, Eulalia, is a student at Stanford University, and did not reach home until the morning following her father's death.

Elkanah W. Richardson was 61 years of age and came to California with his father, the late W. C. B. Richardson in 1870, coming and making it his home until his death. He was familiarly known to his friends and neighbors as "Dick" and was of a quiet, reserved nature, but genial in the extreme when well acquainted. His word was as good as his bond and the friends who will regret his departure are many.

MAY PROVIDE FOR BOYS.

A meeting of committees from Baraca classes of the different Geindale churches was held at the home of Mr. McMillan, 435 Louise street, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming a Baraca union in Glendale. The members of committees present were: Methodist, Mr. McMullan, Mr. Martin, Lloyd Wilson, Baptist, Harry Chase, Luther Huff; Presbyterian, Cyril Wilde, Melson Sprinkle, Mr. Morrow.

It was decided that it is time for a union of this kind and that the organization would be effected as soon as possible.

One object of this organization will be to furnish a place where the young men of Glendale may pass their evenings rather than go to Los Angeles, where they may come in contact with the vicious classes. A Baraca "home" with a gymnasium and reading and games room is the goal toward which the Union will work.

In the near future a minstrel show or an entertainment of like character will be given by the boys to secure funds to start the movement.

We cannot speak too highly of the spirit that prompts these young men in wishing to prepare a place where all the young fellows may spend a profitable and enjoyable evening and still not be compelled to associate with those whose influence is degrading.

WORTH-WHILE CLUB.

The regular social meeting of the Worth While club of the Presbyterian church was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Roy King at Second and Jackson street. The members answered to roll call, with quotations from James Whitcomb Riley, after which his life and work were discussed. Miss Vera McKee sang "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry," and the following poems were read, "Out to Old Aunt Marys" by Miss Bill Lyons; "The Raggedy Man," by Miss Miriam Harrison; "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," by Miss Lois Hatch; "Knee Deep in June," and "Little Orpheum Annie," by Miss Francis Jackson. After some necessary business, the girls enjoyed a jolly good time. The regular business meeting of the club will be held at Miss Bill Lyons, 420 West Fifth street, May 8.

THE STYLUS.

The Freshman number of the Stylus has appeared and as is usual with this quarterly periodical, is creditable in appearance and contents. We copy elsewhere one of the poems.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be Friday, April 28, being postponed from the 21st on account of convention being held at Hollywood. Reports of delegates who attended will be given at Mrs. Julia Beers, 809 Belmont street, 2:30 p. m.

Roll call of presidents at convention was responded to by president and five members of Glendale Union by our rally cry as follows:

"Glendale, Glendale, Hear, Hear!
No saloons dare come near.
Woman's Franchise is our cry,
State prohibition by and by."

Colorado has learned that women can hold public office quite as ably as men and 13 women were elected to municipal position at the last general election. Four women are members of the state legislature and Denver county has a woman commissioner. Hunnewell, Kas., has a woman mayor and Los Angeles has a woman police officer. At the school election in Southern California four women were elected to schoolboards and two were defeated by a small vote.

"For the long workday,
For the taxes we pay,
For the laws we obey,
Women want something to say."

Only in five states do women vote on all questions with men. California will be the sixth state October 10.

"The American Woman" gives an article on the first suffrage convention held in Seneca Falls, New York in 1848, but called Woman's Rights convention, and set forth a list of grievances condensed as follows: The history of mankind is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations on the part of man towards woman, having in direct object the establishment of absolute tyrrany over her. He has never permitted her to exercise her inalienable right to the elective franchise. He has compelled her to submit to laws in the formation of which she had no voice. He has withheld from her rights which are given to the most ignorant and degraded man. He has created a false public sentiment by giving to the world a different code of morals for men and women, by which moral delinquencies which exclude women from society are not tolerated but deemed of little account in man. Only a few years before this Abraham Lincoln had given as his idea of what the suffrage should be in the United States the following: "I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens. Consequently I go for admitting all whites to the right of suffrage who pay taxes or bear arms (by no means excluding females.)"

1911—One of the reasons why women should vote is that women as well as men are human beings, and voting is one of the special rights which distinguishes human beings from brutes.

Rev. Reynold E. Blight of Los Angeles said in a prelude to his sermon, "Equal suffrage will result in better laws. The grading of the ballot will work a revolution in the condition of woman. Instead of being a beggar at the doors of our legislatures, she will be in a position to compel acquiescence to her just demands. Equality politically will inevitably produce equality industrially and socially. In fact, until women are given the ballot her status in all walks of life is that of a dependent, and inferior."

MRS. GAYLORD.
President W. C. T. U.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Valley Improvement Association was held at K. of P. hall Tuesday evening. A number of matters of interest were discussed and several committees made reports. In regard to bridge over the wash at Brand boulevard, the committee reported having seen Supervisor Pridham who had stated that he is thoroughly informed in regard to the matter and is only waiting on the P. E. people now to get them to act in conjunction with the county in putting up a bridge at that point that will be permanent and satisfactory. A committee consisting of Messrs. Lane and Russell was appointed to take the matter up with the railroad people. Mrs. F. L. Church for the committee appointed to attend the meeting in Los Angeles, made an interesting report and the committee was discharged with thanks. The following program was rendered: Recitation, Mrs. Stewart; vocal solo, Miss Pearl Harrison, accompanied by Mrs. A. R. Taylor; recitation, Harry Glazier; reading, Mrs. C. H. Steelman.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting Tuesday night in I. O. O. F. hall. Much business of interest was transacted. A program will be given at the next meeting, May 9th. This will be of interest. Details will be given later.

WITH OUR ADVERTISERS.

McGillis, the enterprising grocer, on Brand boulevard, is feeling highly pleased with the success of his experiment of running specials from week to week. In his opinion this method of advertising is a winner above all others and he is well satisfied with the growth of his business.

"Business is much better than at this season a year ago," said Mr. F. B. Fanning of the Glendale Fuel and Feed Co. "It is now between seasons as there is nothing doing in coal and not much in hay, but the demand for our goods keeps up remarkably well. We handle a great deal of poultry supply goods; the demand for them not being for large lots usually, but from a large and constantly increasing number of customers as the chicken business expands. Every now and then the manufacturers put out some new mixture for poultry and live stock; just now it's Protein, a product of the Soy bean and resembling oil cake meal. It is in high favor with some poultry raisers and is equally good for cows."

"Business keeps up well considering the close competition in this line," said Mr. R. A. Petersen of Petersen and Company's grocery. "Glendale is certainly getting good service in the grocery business, the dealers generally carry a better and more varied stock than is found in any of the other towns about here. The people have been trained to expect good service and although it's pretty hard on the grocer sometimes, they must have it." Asked if this demand on the part of the people for extra service in the way of delivery, etc., is not responsible to a considerable extent for the alleged "high cost of living," Mr. Petersen said, "Certainly, the consumer does not pay all of the extra cost of delivering a five cent loaf of bread at the cost of ten cents worth of time, but he must indirectly share it with the dealer."

SIXTH STREET PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its regular monthly meeting last Friday afternoon, an unusually large attendance being present. Special emphasis was laid on the announcement that the Los Angeles Federation meeting would be held on May 4th in Symphony hall. Judge Charles Neeley of Pomona will lecture in the afternoon on "Our Boys." The Sixth Street Parent-Teacher Association is a member of this Federation and the members were all urged to attend. The members decided to have four vacant lots near the Sixth street school cleaned and put in condition for a baseball diamond for the older boys, thus leaving more room on the school grounds for the younger children. Mrs. Frank Hester, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Grosvenor was placed on a committee to carry the plans into effect.

A nominating committee was also appointed consisting of Mrs. J. R. Roach, Mrs. McClelland and Mrs. M. A. Begg, to nominate next year's officers. A program of more than usual interest then followed. Miss Lathrope of Los Angeles, a talented young pianist, contributed several instrumental numbers, and Dr. Jessie Russell gave the address of the afternoon on the "Moral Training of the Child," which contained many suggestions and helpful advice of benefit to mothers.

A general interest was manifested by the number of questions asked and the free discussion which followed and which showed that the members of the organization had a deep insight and a thorough comprehension of the subject and further a familiarity with books and lectures of the same nature.

THE WURZBURGER CASE.

William W. Wurzburger, husband of the woman who was badly injured by falling into the wash on Brand boulevard last summer, and who obtained judgment against Supervisor Pridham for heavy damages, is now suing the Board of Supervisors for the loss of his wife's services by reason of her injuries. The verdict Mrs. Wurzburger secured was set aside by the court and a new trial granted; the late legislature having repealed the law by which Supervisor Pridham was mulcted.

The Sunday school continues to grow in numbers and interest. A special missionary program will be given by one of the classes next Sunday.

CENTRAL AVENUE TO BE IMPROVED.

We are informed by Supervisor Pridham that orders have been issued for the improvement of Central avenue from the Glendale City limits north, gravel to be hauled in and the road to be put in condition, which he thinks will equal the "Good Roads" work on the south end of that thoroughfare. That portion of the avenue south of the city limits and north of Sixth street will probably be improved by the county to the full width, with the understanding that the city provide one-half of the money required for the job. This arrangement will no doubt be made as Trustee Lane, who was also present at the interview assented to the proposition informally and will present it to the trustees.

CHURCH AID SOCIAL.

On Friday evening, April 28th, a church Aid social will be held at the home of M. P. Harrison, 245 Kenwood street. These socials are given under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, and a very cordial invitation is extended to all members of the church and congregation, and their friends, to be present.

GLENDALE, CAL., APRIL 28, 1911

A warm contest is going on in South Pasadena over the question of consolidation with Los Angeles. The Record figures out that consolidation will increase taxes to the extent of $2.40 per hundred.

The name of N. C. Burch appears as editor of the Interurban Sentinel which succeeds the Tropico Sentinel and is published at Tropico. Mr. Burch is a veteran in the newspaper business and a writer of ability; we welcome him into the fold.

The resignation of City Attorney F. L. Muehlman, came as a surprise to the city trustees and our citizens generally. We understand that Mr. Muehlman finds it impossible to any longer give to the city business the time that it requires and attend to his other business. Mr. Muehlman has proved to be an able and consciencious official, entirely incapable of bias, and his retirement is a subject for general regret.

THE SHIELD.

This is the name of a four-months-old magazine published by the Social Purity League, headquarters at Pomona, Cal. It is a well-prepared publication, having for its object the advancement of the cause for which the League stands, which is indicated in its name. There is a wide field for useful work along the lines that the League has set for itself. Several articles in the Shield are well worthy of serious attention. Rev. Clarence E. Webb is superintendent of the League, which has been represented here during the past week by Mr. Jabez Haigh, of Pasadena.

THE PLAGUE FLEA AND THE STATE LAW.

The February bulletin of the State Board of Health has several pages devoted to an interesting article on the plague and its dissemination by the flea that is found on rats and other rodents, including the common ground squirrel and the gopher. People generally may not know that there was a law passed by the legislature of 1909 making it the duty of every person owning or occupying land to "proceed at once and continue in good faith to endeavor to exterminate and destroy such rodents." Failure to carry out the provisions of this law or refusal to comply with them constitutes a misdemeanor. Further than this, the municipality, if there is one, is empowered to rid property of these pests when necessary, and the charge to be a lien on the property. The supervisors are requested to proceed at once to inspect lands and see if the animals are exterminated; if not, to take steps to enforce the law.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

As we expressed a fear at the time that the frost of the 15th would do injury to fruit in the lower part of the valley, so it turns out. We have not heard of any injury around Glendale, but near the river the apricot and peach crops suffered considerably. On the whole it is possible that in the end it may prove to have been merely a wholesome thinning out of a big crop which would have been principally small fruit. This paper has always advised our readers to go slow about early planting. There is rarely frost after April 1st, but it does come occasionally, as has lately been demonstrated. Aside from the danger from frost, we usually have a great deal of foggy, cool weather at this season, and early planted vegetables, even if the seed germinates, are likely to stand still while the later planting catches up to them. The best results are obtained by keeping the ground stirred up frequently so as to have it in the best possible condition for moderately early planting.

LET JUSTICE BE DONE.

It seems as if some of the men engaged in the conspiracy to destroy property and life for the purpose of terrorrizing those who have the temerity to oppose the high-handed methods of militant labor unionism, are in the toils of the law, from which it is to be hoped they will not escape until full justice is done to them. When the Times building was destroyed this paper expressed the belief that it was the act of the "inner circle" of the labor unionists, and the probability is that this belief will be fully justified by the facts. It would not be fair to hold labor organizations responsible for the almost incredible outrages apparently committed by this band of outlaws, as the rank and file of the good citizens composing labor unions are no doubt ignorant of the existence of such an "inner circle," but it is apparent to outsiders that there is a criminal minority that use the unions for their own selfish purpose. Instead of raising an immense fund to "defend" the culprits when they are found, a fund that will be used principally to warp public opinion and intimidate judge and jury, good citizens can better afford to contribute time and money to bring to light every fact bearing upon the case, willing to let the just verdict be what it may. Meanwhile, abuse of General Otis and the Los Angeles Times is not pertinent to the case at issue.

THE SITUATION IN MEXICO.

No one can read the interview with Premier Limanteur at the city of Mexico, published a few days ago, without coming to the conclusion that that gentleman has in him at least some of the qualities of a statesman. He presents the case of his government in a manner that is dignified and convincing. His statement of conditions along the border shows that he fully realizes the handicap which is put upon the Mexican government by the attitude of citizens of the United States who are doing everything in their power to help the insurrectionists. And yet Seneor Limanteur expresses himself in a manner that is entirely unobjectionable. From the beginning of the present trouble in Mexico, citizens of the United States have practically financed the revolution and armed its soldiers and continue to sympathize with them and to give them all possible support. If the officials of the Mexican government should exhibit some resentment at this aspect of the affair, it need occasion no surprise, on the contrary, they would scarcely be human if they did not, and when Senor Limanteur restrains himself so admirably, it is greatly to his credit. Meanwhile it looks as if Mr. LaFollette's resolution asking President Taft to explain why he sent the army down to the Mexican border, will be allowed to die a natural death. It is becoming more evident day by day that President Taft knows what he is doing and why.

HONORING THE BIBLE.

The civilized world is celebrating the tercentinary anniversary of the King James version of our Bible. Three hundred years ago, the 54 learned men selected to prepare a translation of the Scriptures, completed their great task. We are given to celebrating anniversaries of men supposed to be great, but the observance of the anniversary of the birth (rebirth in this case) of a book is something unique.

But this anniversary is a more important one than that of any mere man. The Bible is the power behind our best men. Its influence is so diffused throughout the world that none may escape it, even although they are moved by it unconsciously. It is the foundation of our law and literature as well as of our religion. The King James version remains the favorite with the people because of its rhythmic simplicity; probably the version of 1881 is more exact, but it has not yet grown into favor and probably never will. As some one has recently said, the translators of the time of King James used a purer style of English than we are capable of in this generation. They were more simple and direct in their speech, nearer to nature and less troubled by doubts.

The observance of this anniversary will do good; it will go far to revive interest in the sacred Book. The present generation are not as familiar with it as were their parents, and being ignorant of its merit cannot be expected to appreciate it. We do not believe that it will be possible much longer to keep the Bible out of the schools. Its exclusion is based on a false assumption and in the spirit of a true liberality it will again occupy the proud position accorded to it by an intelligent people as being truly the "Book of Books."

TELL THE TRUTH ONLY—IT'S ENOUGH.

California now has a very good law the purpose of which is to protect the people against the unscrupulous promoter of fake mining and other unworthy companies which endeavor to sell their stock to the people who desire investment for their surplus cash. It seems to us that the public needs protection as much against the fakirs who prey upon purchasers of real estate; the promoters of land deals, the successful handling of which depends upon a misrepresentation of facts. The most common misrepresentations in these doubtful deals are first, in regard to contemplated improvements; and second, in regard to the water supply. Promoters who depend principally upon the first, should be required to put up a bond to insure the carrying out of all of their projects as far as definitely promised. In regard to the misrepresentations in regard to water supply, the bond should also be required for that if the supply is one to be developed, if misrepresentation is made as regards the supply of water already available, the act should be made a felony. Any one familiar with the real estate history of Southern California for twenty years or less past, can recall many instances in which certain promised "improvements" and "developments" have never gone beyond the paper stage, and in many instances it was just these alluring promises which led people to invest and lose their money. Of course these schemes were not all intentionally dishonest; possibly the promoters were merely visionary and hopeful, with the full intention of giving those with whom they dealt the full value of their money, but the essential fact is that they did not do it. Every day at the present time, the daily papers are full of big projects, only a small proportion of which are likely to be carried out. One that we have in mind promises an adequate water supply, even giving the measurement in inches, which is based upon the supply of surface water at the present time, although within six months it will doubtless be divisible by ten. The truth about Southern California is good enough and the schemes which depend upon a rank perversion of it for success, deserve the severest reprobation.

REGULATION OF RAILROAD RATES.

(Correspondence)

Editor the NEWS:

Your interesting editorial of April 14th on the meaning of railroad "Economy," touches upon a question of vital importance, namely, the probable effect upon railway employes (and through them upon workers in countless allied industries) of the governmental control of the roads by rate-regulation and otherwise. If the proposed material reduction of earnings shall have as one of its results the discharge of employes or the lowering of wages it is clear that the benefits to be obtained by the public at large (from rate-regulation) will be grievously offset by the distress of the workers.

It is not generally known, I fear, that a few weeks ago a number of representatives of the various railroad labor unions went to Washington for the purpose of presenting to the Interstate Commerce Commission a petition signed by 250,000 railway employes. This petition was a protest against the proposed refusal by the commission to allow the railroads to raise rates. In presenting it, the members of the several unions brought out the argument that any reduction in the revenues of the roads would at once be met with a commensurate reduction in expenditures, and this would, of course, result in laying off men or cutting of wages.

As you stated in your editorial "It is unlikely that they (the railway managers) should engage in anything like a conspiracy to coerce the government." But, as the employes contended through their representatives at Washington, it is quite likely that an attempt to reduce the earnings of the roads will result in reduced extensions, developments and other new business, with a consequent decrease in the amount of labor required, or in the wages paid. In a recent remarkable interview Mr. Ripley, president o fthe Santa Fe, predicted that the clamor for rate-regulation would be sure to arouse the working-class into resisting such a demand, for the obvious reason that the employe is directly interested in the continued prosperity of the employer. We will do wisely, therefore, if we proceed slowly and with absolute justice to all in our work of regulating the rail roads.

Yours truly,
H. A. ADAMS.

IN THE RECORDER'S COURT.

Judge Whomes on Monday last committed to the county hospital on charge of insanity, Mrs. Martha McCrimmons, of San Fernando, who had been at the sanitarium about a week and had become violent.

On the advice of the district attorney, the sentence of Robert Guym, convicted of embezzlement, was reduced to twenty-five dollars, and he is now serving his time in the county jail. It seems that Guym was already a probationer, being on probation in the county for a term of three years for a former offence. He will now have to settle with the district attorney for breaking his parole after he gets out o fjail.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

This edition of the News will be delivered just in time to inform those of our readers who happen not to have seen the announcement in the daily papers, that a very interesting event is due to occur on Friday afternoon. An unusually important eclipse of the sun will take place on that date, beginning in Los Angeles at five minutes past three, when the dark body of the moon will be observed to impinge on the lower edge of the sun's disc, slightly to the right hand side. The greatest obscuration will occur at five minutes to four, when three-fifths of the disc will be covered. The moon will then pass off to the left hand side of the sun, and at a quarter to five the eclipse will be over. According to Mr. W. H. Knight, a local astronomer, who has made eclipses his special study, Los Angeles is unusually favored in being able to see more of the sun's disc obscured than any other locality in the United States. In a certain circumscribed zone in the South Pacific Ocean the eclipse will be total, and a British expedition has gone to a station in the Friendly Islands, within the path of totality, to take astronomical observations. A total eclipse offers rare opportunities for observing phenomena which can be seen under no other circumstances, and every preparation is made to secure the best photographs and spectrographs during the few precious minutes of absolute totality, and one can imagine it requires a cool head and steady hands and eyes to avoid accidents and mistakes. For popular observers there is nothing better than smoked or colored glass, red or blue, the latter for preference, and it is always extremely interesting to watch the progress of the moon as it eats its way into and across the brilliant orb of day. In such an occupation one's imagination will naturally try to conjure up the real facts and to picture the stupendous miracle that is being enacted before him. These immense bodies hanging free in space as a rule have little reality for us, until we stop to think about them. As we look at the eclipse, let us try to realize that the sun is nearly nine hundred thousand miles in diameter, at a distance of ninety-three million miles, and the moon rather over two thousand miles in diameter, at a distance of nearly a quaretr of a million miles from us. And although appearing to move so slowly over the sun's disc, is really racing along at the enormous velocity of about thirty-eight miles a minute. It will indeed take a powerful imagination to grasp the facts, and it is extremely doubtful if they can be truly realized; the bare statement of sizes, distances and motions informs us so dimly, and wondering comprehension lags behind.

Let us hope the sky will be clear on Friday, as of course it would be impossible to see the eclipse should the cloudy weather of the last few days prevail. It is quite likely, however, to be the case, and we may be disappointed. But our disappointment will be as nothing to that of the poor fellows who sometimes find their journey of thousands of miles, and elaborate and laborious preparations in setting up and adjusting instruments, of no avail, because of locally unfavorable weather. In such cases patience is indeed a virtue.

X-RAY.

City Engineer Lynch has surveyed and platted the Kober & Tarr property on the corner of Sixth street and Verdugo road. Mr. Kober transfers to Mr. Tarr three lots facing on Verdugo road, north of the proposed corrected line of Sixth street; the strip that will be left south of the road is transferred to Mrs. M. E. Griswold, who owns the apricot orchard on the south side of the street.

Tramps and Cuff Muzzlers.

The most curious article in the tramp's outfit bears an appropriately odd name—the "cuff muzzler." It consists of the leg of an old stocking cut up into short lengths and worn over the wrist like a thick mitten, and its object is to increase the circumference of the wrist to such an extent that a constable cannot easily slip a handcuff over it.

Indeed, a pair of "cuff muzzlers"—which are worn by none save veteran roadsters—make it very difficult for a constable alone and unaided to handcuff their wearer. Tramps' tools bear puzzling names. Particularly cryptic is "fiddle," the term for a big nail carried by the "spike ranger" or itinerant who goes from one casual ward to the next. Should he fall into the hands of the police it is used in "oakum worrying"—that is, separating the strands of hard rope.—Baltimore American.

Matchmaking In Roumania.

In Roumania once every year is a fair of marriageable girls. The girl, with her relations, gets into a wagon, which also contains her dowry—linen, furniture and household matters—and all set off for the fair. When they arrive the girls are drawn up in one line and the men in another, with their parents behind them. Then if a young man likes the look of any particular girl he talks to her while the parents compare notes as to their possessions and their circumstances in life. If all is found satisfactory there's a marriage at once, and the bride is driven away by her husband to her new home.

Long Distance Courtship.

A lady was one day approached by her Scotch maid with the information that she was about to leave. "What is the cause of this sudden decision, Mary?"

"I think I'll be a-marryin'."

"Indeed, and whom, may I ask?"

"The mon that sits across in the kirk o' Sundays."

"But what is his name?"

"I dinna ken."

"What! You're surely not engaged to a man whose name you do not know!"

"Not engaged, my lady, but he's ben lang lookin' at me, an' I think he'll soon be speakin'."—Housekeeper.

There is not any benefit so glorious in itself that it may not be sweetened and improved by the manner of giving it.—Seneca.

That is the bitterest of all, to wear the yoke of your own wrongdoing.—Eliot.

A Cartographic Curiosity.

Catherine de' Medici once entertained the ambition of acquiring both North and South America as appendages to her crown, and with that object in view she dispatched a couple of her representatives to the scene of operations. The northern section of the enterprise was committed to the charge of the queen's favorite, Troilus de Mesgonez, who was adorned with the title of viceroy of France and sailed from Havre with a large fleet, only to be wrecked in the Atlantic. Another favorite, Strozzi, was commissioned to capture South America, but he was no more fortunate than Mesgonez, for he was killed at the Azores. These happenings, however, took a long time to reach the ears of Queen Catherine, and in the meantime she nursed her dreams and prepared a map on which "the new world of the north" and "the new world of the south" figured as colonies of France. This cartographic curiosity is among the map treasures of the National library in Paris.

Sweetness That Never Palls.

During a sleepless night the Vizier Mujjeduddin Kumija dispatched his slave, Bedruddin Ejas, to bring him sweets. The slave procured a copper kettle heaped with many kinds of fruits and sweets, and Mujjeduddin began to eat.

"You relish them, my master?" asked the slave.

The vizier shrugged his shoulders. "These fruits are sweet—for the moment," he said, "but show me a fruit the sweetness of which will endure even unto the judgment day."

"Such fruits there are, my master," cried the slave and hastened toward the Mesched Husa, where he awoke the starving orphans in the house of Aliwin and led them forth into the room of his master. Overjoyed, the famished children devoured the fruits.

"Look, oh, my master," said the slave. "Here you see fruits the sweetness of which endures unto the judgment day."

Two Little Bills.

Robert was in the habit of expecting reward for every little service. At the end of the week he made out a "bill" to his mother and carefully laid it where her eyes would fall upon it. The items were as follows:

"Mother Owes to Robert.

"Five cents for running errands.

"Five cents for being good."

That evening there appeared beside Robert's plate a paper upon which was written:

"Robert owes mother, for years of happiness, nothing; for nursing him through long illnesses, nothing; for doing good to him, nothing."

Thoroughly ashamed of himself, Robert ran to mother, threw his arms around her and sobbed:

"Mother, I will do everything I can for you after this, and I'll never ask you to give me anything but just love."—Omaha World-Herald.

Easy to Please.

"So," said his girl's papa furiously, "you think you could make my little girl Arethusa happy?"

The young man considered his prospective pa-in-law, who had gout and a face like a fire engine and an eighty horsepower temper.

"She's been happy with you, sir, hasn't she?" the young man asked.

"I think so, my boy—I think so," replied his girl's papa. "I certainly think so. I think so certainly. I'm certain I think so."

"Well," chimed in the young man sweetly, "if she's been happy with you I certainly think I can make her happy. I think so. I think so certainly. I'm certain I think so."

Sleepwalking.

Somnambulism has been a mystery and a matter of discussion to the medical profession since the days of the ancients. They knew as well as we all now know that there is such a thing as somnambulism, or walking in the sleep. They attempted to explain it just as modern medical science has been endeavoring to explain it ever since. But as it was then so it is now. There are so many explanations that even the physician is puzzled to decide which to accept.

A Freak.

The elevator was waiting for passengers on the ground floor of the skyscraper when an excited woman fluttered over to the man running it.

"Does this car go up?" she inquired, breathless.

"No, madam," said the elevator man, unperturbed, "this is a crosstown car."—New York Times.

The One Place.

"That Mrs. Gossip seems to be at home wherever she may be."

"Well, I saw her in a place yesterday where she seemed decidedly restless and uneasy."

"You don't say? Where was that?"

"At home."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Awkwardly Expressed.

Gushing Lady—I hear you've been away for your health, professor. Musical Lion—Yes. I've been at Marienbad taking the baths. Gushing Lady—Really! That must have been a change for you!—London Opinion.

What's the Answer?

The inevitable kid and his question: "Papa, who furnishes the meat for the train, the cow catcher or the train butcher?"—Santa Fe Employees' Magazine.

Pretty Bad.

"Was the play bad?"

"Well, I should say. Why, even the lights went out at the close of the second act."

Historic Beauties.

The famous beauties of the world are wise when they leave no portraits of themselves. Take Marguerite of Valois. She was an immoral, dishonorable, criminal, scheming, unscrupulous villainess, but she was dowered with such charm that there was not a jailer or an enemy she could not charm when she tried. No, nor a woman—not even the wives of her lovers. Men came from every country, taking year long journeys, only to see her and went away, after a little glimpse, saying they had "seen loveliness itself." Then one sees her portraits. Too much forehead, not enough eyebrow, a straight nose and expressive mouth (in one picture a lovely mouth)—and that is all. Mary, queen of Scots, was very lovely—three kingdoms battled because of her beauty—and yet her pictures leave one cold. Fouche said her portrait showed every trait of the lowest criminal type. That was before he knew whose picture he criticised.—London Truth.

Lost Meanings.

"Those who care for the beginnings of things may be glad that the quill pen survives to remind us that the original pen was plucked from a bird," observes a writer. "Germans and Frenchmen are in no danger of forgetting that, thanks to their respective words 'feder' and 'plume,' but the English 'pen' suggests a feather only when one chooses to think about it and recall the Latin 'penna.' Almost all our writing materials are no longer what etymologically they profess to be. Paper is no longer made of papyrus; a pencil is not a little tail 'penicillus,' like a camel's hair brush; the 'lead' of a lead pencil is not lead, and the 'india rubber' with which we erase its marks does not and never did come from India. Even of parchment there is probably not a fragment in the country, except, perhaps, in a museum and coming from Pergamum, in Asia."—Chicago News.

Life in the Icy Arctic.

In the morning I was generally the one to waken first and would either start the alcohol lamp myself or call Astrup for that purpose. Our morning meal consisted of a lump of pemmican, six biscuits, two ounces of butter and two cups of tea each. As soon as this was finished everything was repacked on the sledge. I then read the odometer, aneroid and thermometer and, taking the guidon, which had waved and fluttered over the kitchen throughout our hours of rest, from its place, stepped forward and the next march was commenced. After from four to six hours of marching we would halt for half an hour to eat our simple lunch of pemmican and give the dogs a rest and then after four to six hours of traveling halt again and repeat the already described route.—Robert E. Peary, "The Great White Journey."

Got Rid of the Scum.

She was a city bride who had never before taken a hand in housekeeping and knew but little about things in the kitchen. A few mornings ago she got after the milkman.

"What's the matter with your milk?" she said, with great vehemence.

"I don't know," he replied. "What do you find wrong with it?"

"Well," she said, "every morning it is covered with a nasty yellow scum."

"And what do you do with the scum?"

"Why, I skim it off, of course, and throw it in the garbage can."—Farmers' Guide.

Sacrificing the Woman.

That Carlyle could contemplate with equanimity being unpraised, unmoneyed and neglected all his life, that he required neither the world's pudding nor its breath and could be happy without them, was pardonable and perhaps commendable. That he should expect another person to share this unmoneyed, puddingless and rather forlorn condition was scarcely consistent with such lofty principles. Men may sacrifice themselves, if they please, to imagined high duties and ambitions, but they have no right to marry wives and sacrifice them.—Exchange.

How People Die.

It is estimated that the average duration of human life is thirty-three years. A quarter of the people die during the seventh year and half before the seventeenth. Of every 1,000 persons one only reaches 100 years, six in 100 get to 65 and one in 500 to 80. It is further estimated that throughout the world 50,000,000 die annually, 138,000 a day, nearly 6,000 an hour, 90 a minute, or three in every two seconds.

Discretion.

Wife (whose husband, the local mayor, has just been knighted)—Have you heard from the man who offered to trace our pedigree?' Husband—Yes; he has found out more than enough. Wife—What did you pay him? Husband—Fifty pounds—to hold his tongue!—London Opinion.

The Desideratum.

"George, what do you have to do when you draw some money out of a bank?" asked an innocent young wife.

"You have to put some money in the bank beforehand," replied the husband. "That's always been my experience!"

A Friendly Tip.

"My husband always is the severest critic of the gowns I wear."

"Well, judging from what I have heard, he has to go some if he is."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Duncan Smoked in Church.

Sir Walter Scott in his "Heart of Midlothian" refers to one Duncan of Knockdunder, an important personage, who smoked during the whole of the sermon from an iron pipe tobacco borrowed from other worshipers. We are told that at the end of the discourse he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, replaced it in his sporran, returned the tobacco pouch to its owner and joined in the prayer with decency and attention.

The Vacant Literary Throne.

There is, we must admit, today no monarch in any tongue upon the literary throne, no sovereign world name in poetry or prose, in whom, as has happened before now, not so many generations ago, in royal succession to Scott, Byron, Goethe, Hugo, Tolstoy, all the civilized world—Teuton, Latin, Celt, Slav, oriental—is interested, for whose new works it looks or where it seeks the gospel of the day. Nabochlish, to use an Irish word that became a favorite with Sir Walter Scott, it does not matter. Do not let us nurse the humor of the despondent editor who mournfully told his readers, "No new epic this month."

Nobody can tell how the wonders of language are performed nor how a book comes into the world. Genius is genius. The lamp that today some may think burns low will be replenished. New orbs will bring light. Literature may be trusted to take care of itself, for it is the transcript of the drama of life, with all its actors, moods and strange flashing fortunes. The curiosity that it meets is perpetual and insatiable, and the impulses that inspire it can never be extinguished.—John Morley.

Thrifty Harry Lauder.

There are many stories told of the wonderful thrift of Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian. Once when Lauder was in New York he was in a wine buying party at the Astor. Everybody but the Scot bought wine. When it came his turn to buy he sighed.

"Well, boys," he said, "it's my turn to treat. Come along with me. I've got a fine bottle of old Scotch up in my room. I brought it over with me."

On another occasion he was with a drinking party and instead of liquor he took cigars, for which those who treated him paid 50 cents apiece. Harry put all but one in his pocket. He spent two hours smoking that one. After the drinking was over the little comedian went to the cigar counter and said to the man in charge, "I say, man, wud ye mind givin' me ten cent cigars for these fafty cent ones?" The exchange was made, and Harry went to his room with five times as many cigars as he had at the start.

Thought It Was Serious.

The burning of the famous Greyfriars church in Edinburgh occurred one Sunday morning, and the young people of a house which backed upon the churchyard were among the first, as they were preparing to start for church, to observe the flames. It was the housemaid's Sunday out, and old Kitty, the cook, was that day responsible for her duties. Hearing unwonted commotion and excited outcries upstairs, she came panting and hobbling up from her basement kitchen, crying anxiously at each stair:

"Oh, what is't? What is't?"

"Oh, Kitty, look here!" cried one of the girls from a window. "Greyfriars church is burning up."

Kitty dropped limply on a settee.

"Is that a', miss?" she grumbled between gasps. "What a fright ye geed me! I thicht ye said the parlor fire was out."—Youth's Companion.

Blending the Odors.

It has been proved that two odors which do not seem to have anything in common, that of putrefied cheese and that of pineapple, are so closely allied from the chemical standpoint that it takes but a few minutes to transform an intense stench into a sweet fragrance. This curious experiment is easily made and requires but a small amount of three chemicals—valerianic acid, sulphuric acid and amylic alcohol. Care must be taken not to spill over the fingers or dress any drop of the first two named liquids. Sulphuric acid is exceedingly caustic and the stench of valerianic acid, besides being unendurable, is very difficult to get rid of.—London Family Herald.

The Caddie's Advice.

A famous woman golfer was talking about the St. Andrews links.

"And as wonderful as the links," she said, "are the caddies. The Scotch caddie is the quaintest of mortals. For instance: 'I had skied a lot of balls one morning, much to my caddie's disgust. Finally he teed a ball for me and then, handing me my driver, remarked:

"'Noo, leddy, let's see a guid shot, and nae mair o' yer glory hallelujahs.'"

The Outdoor Nation.

No nation loves nature so much as the German. The Italian travels to get somewhere, the German to travel. The country walk for its own sake is a German discovery. The Englishman's ideal is a park, the German's a wood, and the Frenchman loves his boulevard.—Hamburger Zeitung.

She Admitted It.

A Mrs. Malaprop said to Clara Novello, the noted English prima donna, "You will admit that there is a great deal of evil life in the theater."

"True, indeed," replied Clara, "but on which side of the curtain?"

An Economist.

"You should ride a horse."

"Can't afford it," said the apprehensive person.

"But it will give you an appetite."

"Perhaps. But it will do the same for the horse."—Washington Star.

A Big Gun.

"Professor Smart is a man of large mental caliber, is he not?"

"He certainly is a big bore."—University of Minnesota Minnehaha.

Diana of Philadelphia.

At the mint in Philadelphia are a number of coins far more precious than any which find their way into circulation. They are a collection of curios, and many of them date from times of great antiquity. Perhaps the most interesting among them is a handsome coin bearing on its face the profile of a woman which has a striking resemblance to the goddess of Liberty of our own currency. Underneath is the single word "Demos," which is the Greek for people. On the reverse of the coin is a beautiful figure of the goddess Diana arching her bow, and the inscription translated into English reads, "Diana, Friend of the Philadelphians."

The coin was minted more than 2,000 years ago at the city of Philadelphia, in Asia Minor, where there grew up in later years one of the seven churches of which St. John writes. The prize was discovered some years ago in Europe by a citizen of our own Philadelphia, himself an authority on coins. By him it was appropriately presented to the mint in Philadelphia. —New York Press.

Carlyle's Sneer at Gladstone.

J. E. Boehm, the sculptor, once met Gladstone at a country house and was immensely impressed by the extent and diversity of the statesman's knowledge as revealed in his conversation. Boehm was still full of the subject when the morning arrived for Carlyle's sitting for a bust, and to the philosopher the sculptor poured forth his admiration for Gladstone's intimate acquaintance with subjects so far apart as gardening and Greek. Carlyle listened for a time in scornful silence; then he said, "And what did he say about your work?" "Oh, nothing," said Boehm. "He doesn't know anything about sculpture." "Of course," growled Carlyle, "of course, and he showed his knowledge about things that you didn't understand. No doubt if you asked Blackie he'd say that Gladstone knew nothing about Greek, and the gardener would tell you that he knew nothing whatever of gardening."

How Sheridan Paid a Debt

No one knew better the power possessed by a really polished compliment than Sheridan, and on innumerable occasions during that rather stormy theatrical management of his did he extricate himself from a difficulty by means of one. A good instance is the following: An English nobleman who had married a beautiful actress once applied with much dignity in the greenroom to Mr. Sheridan for the arrears of her salary and vowed that he would not stir till they were paid.

"My dear lord," said the impecunious manager, "this is too bad. You have taken from us the brightest jewel in the world, and you now quarrel with us for the little dust she has left behind her."

The nobleman immediately burst out laughing, and the debt was canceled.—London Standard.

Graveyard Marriages.

A strange custom prevails among a certain tribe in the Caucasus. When a single young man dies some one calls upon a bereaved parent who has carried to the grave a marriageable daughter in the course of a year and says: "Your son is sure to want a wife. I'll give you my daughter, and you shall deliver to me the marriage portion in return." A friendly offer of this description is never rejected, and the two parties soon come to terms as to the amount of the dowry, which varies according to the advantages possessed by the girl in her lifetime. Cases have been known where the young man's father has given as much as thirty cows to secure a dead wife for his dead son.

Lightning Rods.

There were no lightning rods in ancient times. The first one that the world ever saw was set up by our own illustrious countryman Benjamin Franklin shortly after the year 1752. He had just had his celebrated experiment with the kite, in which he demonstrated the identity of lightning with electricity, and was therefore prepared for the construction of the rods for which the world had waited so long. It is not generally known that Franklin was as distinguished in science as he was in statesmanship and diplomacy.—Exchange.

As It Really Was.

On the morning after his first appearance on the stage the confident but untalented youth met a friend who had witnessed his first performance. "What do you think of my acting?" asked the would be Hamlet.

"That wasn't acting," replied the friend. "That was misbehavior."

Men's Clothes.

Since 1825 the clothing of men has grown simpler and simpler, and if the course of evolution has taken away from the picturesqueness of the crowd it has added to the dignity of the man. —Men's Wear.

Unreasonable.

"I say, old man, you've never returned that umbrella I lent you last week."

"Hang it all, old man, be reasonable. It's been raining ever since."—London Punch.

A Faith Cure.

Towne—Do I understand you to say that Spender's case was really a faith cure? Brown—Yes. You see, the doctor and the druggist both trusted him. —Medford Drum.

Have a heart that never hardens, and a temper that never tires, and a touch that never hurts.—Charles Dickens.

The Vagabond Actor.

Moliere raised the status of the actor to a hireling clown who must amuse his king. Sir Henry Irving was even knighted by Queen Victoria, who recognized his magnificent services to dramatic art. But in all the years when Sir Henry was breaking his neck to run back and forth between Victoria's royal residences and the cities where he was playing, to set up his scenes and act for the old queen's amusement and the entertainment of her guests, he was never once officially received by her at court. He had many private audiences, which were much the same for him as to have a chat with any other old lady; but, although he was the possessor of a royal title, a favorite with the royal family and the greatest actor of his age, he never was invited or "commanded," as it is called, to Buckingham palace. The status of vagabondia clung to his garments, and he was classed with crooked nobles and other undesirables.—Archie Bell in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Courage and the Flea.

Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear, not absence of fear. Except a creature be part coward, it is not a compliment to say it is brave; it is merely a loose misapplication of the word. Consider the flea—incomparably the bravest of all the creatures of God if ignorance of fear were courage. Whether you are asleep or awake, he will attack you, caring nothing for the fact that in bulk and strength you are to him as are the massed armies of the earth to a sucking child. He lives both day and night and all days and nights in the very lap of peril and the immediate presence of death and yet is no more afraid than is the man who walks the streets of a city that was threatened by an earthquake ten centuries before. When we speak of Clive, Nelson and Putnam as men who "didn't know what fear was" we ought always to add the flea—and put him at the head of the procession.—Mark Twain.

The Original Paul Pry.

Thomas Hill, familiarly called Tommy Hill, was, says Dr. Brewer, the original Paul Pry. It was from him also that Theodore Hook drew his character of Gilbert Gurney. Planche in his "Recollections" says of Hill: "His specialty was the accurate information he could impart on all the petty details of the domestic economy of his friends, the contents of their wardrobes, their pantries, the number of pots of preserves in their store closets and of the table napkins in their linen presses, the dates of their births and marriages, the amounts of their tradesmen's bills and whether paid weekly or quarterly. He had been on the press and was connected with the Morning Chronicle. He used to drive Matthews crazy by ferreting out his whereabouts when he left London and popping the information in some paper."

Names in Electricity.

Electricity is the one branch of science that honors the great names in its fundamental terminology. Andre Marie Ampere was the French physicist who first measured the current and for whom the unit is named. The ohm bears the name of George S. Ohm, a German man of science who discovered the law on which the unit of electrical resistance is based. The volt is named for the Italian Volta, the greatest electrical authority of the eighteenth century, who was the first man to construct a rude electric battery. The farad, the unit of electrical capacity, is named in honor of the English physicist Faraday; the colomb, the unit of quantity, for the French physicist Coulomb, and the watt, the unit of power, for James Watt, the Scotch inventor who improved the steam engine.

Herbert Spencer Was Human.

Herbert Spencer in the attitude of superintending his household affairs was practical and amusing. At one time the poulterer had not been giving satisfaction, so Mr. Spencer called his housekeeper and gave her directions to transfer his custom to another tradesman whose shop faced the delinquent's. "And, Miss Smith," said the author of "Synthetic Philosophy," "be particular that the first poulterer sees you giving your orders to the second poulterer!"

Always Lucky.

McConnell—Sure, isn't Larry always th' lucky b'y? Murphy—Lucky, do ye call him, whin it was only yesterday that he fell, breakin' his leg an' his arrm? McConnell—Faith, an' wasn't he lucky on that occasion, wid th' accident takin' place within twinty fate of th' hospital?—Chicago News.

On the Other Hand.

"On the one hand," said the teacher, pointing a long finger to the map on the classroom wall, "we have the far stretching country of Russia. On the other hand—what do I see on the other hand, Tommy?"

"Warts!" hazarded Tommy, hopeless with fright.

Superstitious.

"What! Did you let the examinations go by again, Carl?"

"I'll tell you, father. On the way to the college I met an old woman, and then I turned back again."—Fliegende Blatter.

The Usual Course.

Haughty Lady (who has purchased a stamp)—Must I put it on myself?

Clerk (very politely)—Not necessarily, ma'am. It will probably be better if you put it on the letter.

He has not learned the lesson of life who does not every day surmount a fear.—Emerson.

The "Tea Leafer."

A good deal of the tea consumed by the working classes in the days when Arthur Young complained of the addiction to this luxury had never seen either India or China. In one of John Ashton's works on England he cites a case in which a boy charged with gambling stated that the money found in his possession had been made by picking tea leaves. This led to the discovery that many persons made a living by picking sloe leaves and whitethorn leaves in the fields near Camberwell and selling them to a local cowkeeper for a penny a pound. One man said he picked from fifty to sixty pounds a day and always found a market for them. The leaves were subsequently sold to a wholesale merchant, who obtained as much as 8 shillings a pound for them under the guise of tea. The merchant was prosecuted and fined, not for adulteration, but for defrauding the revenue. And the "tea leafer" is still the slang name for the petty thief.—London Standard.

Whims of Parrots.

"It is odd," said the bird store keeper, "but it is true, how people come into a bird store and expect to open up a conversation with a parrot offhand. They fail and then make up their mind that the parrot is worthless. This will apply to a majority of seekers after a talking parrot. They do not give the bird credit for the sense it actually possesses. There are parrots valued at anywhere from $50 to $500 that will not be coaxed into conversation with a stranger nor while he is present, although they are the very best of talkers. Parrots often refuse to perform when there are purchasers looking on, but once the store is clear of them they will chatter away through their whole vocabulary as if their very lives depended on their being heard. This obstinacy often spoils good sales. Most parrots will talk to a girl or woman much quicker and freer than to a boy or a man."—Browning's Monthly.

Ostriches and Their Eggs.

A singular thing about ostriches is the way they bring up their babies. To begin with, there are a good many eggs in the nest (dug out of the hot sand), but the eggs were laid by different mothers. Ostriches do not lay eggs every day, and, being far apart, they would not hatch together. When the nest is prepared, therefore, all the ladies in the neighborhood are invited to contribute an egg apiece, the hostess returning the favor in due time.

Ostrich eggs are delicious. One weighs three pounds, or is equal to a dozen of a hen's. They are very convenient, too, for the hunters in the desert. They not only furnish a delightful meal, but a dish to cook in. The shell is hard and thick, and the egg is set on the fire, a hole is broken in the top, it is stirred with a stick, and when it is done the saucepan serves as a dish as well.—New York Tribune.

The Name of Rio de Janeiro.

Rio de Janeiro owes her name to the accident of a date and the mistake of her discovery. When Alphonso de Souza, the Portuguese navigator, found himself in the spacious bay he imagined he had found the mouth of a noble river, and because the day happened to be the 1st of January, 1531, he named the supposed river after the first month of the year. The name was not applied to the city that grew up on the slopes of the hills till many years afterward, but San Sebastian, the original name, is now almost forgotten. Rio as a city purchases the beauty of her site at the cost of health, for the giant ridges that form the beautiful background to the town shut out the breezes that might blow tropical nuisances harmlessly to sea.—London Spectator.

Astrology and War.

It has been stated on what is said to be good authority that a representative of the Prussian government asked of a French astrologer the proper time to pick a quarrel with France. After carefully comparing horoscopes of high officials he answered that any hour in the afternoon as near as possible midway between the 9th and 14th of July, 1870. On the 11th of July William snubbed Benedetti, the French emissary, and on the 12th friendly relations ceased.

Economy in the Home.

"What the land needs is an era of economy in the home."

"Yes?"

"Yes. Don't you agree with me?"

"Certainly, but—er"—

"Well?"

"Would you mind going home past my house and telling my wife about it?"—Houston Post.

Very Awkward.

"Your Albert is going bald, ain't 'e, Mrs. Smithers?"

"Yes, Mrs. Peters, 'e certainly is gettin' 'igh 'eaded, and it makes it very awkward for the pore dear. When 'e washes 'e 'as to keep 'is 'at on 'is 'ead to tell where 'is face finishes!"—London Mail.

Utter Waste.

"We all sigh for something unattainable."

"That's right. My wife has never been able to find any good use for the burned matches."—Washington Herald.

The Way of the World.

"Isn't it awful? According to the papers, there just seems to be one revolution after another."

"Yes. That's the way the world goes round."—Judge.

It is the peculiarity of a fool to be quick in seeing the faults of others while he is blind to his own.

Said forty-eight bonds shall be payable in the manner following: One twenty fourth part of the whole amount of such indebtedness shall be paid on July 1st, 1912, and one-twenty-fourth part of the whole amount of such indebtedness each and every year thereafter.

Said bonds are issued under the authority of the act of the Legislature of the State of California entitled "An Act Authorizing the Incurring of Indebtedness by Cities, Towns and Municipal Corporations for Municipal Improvements and Regulating the Acquisition, Construction or Completion Thereof," which became a law February 25, 1901, and in accordance with the provisions of law and the ordinances of said City.

No proposals for said bonds will be entertained at less than their face value together with the accrued interest to the date of their delivery, and all bids or proposals submitted will be construed by the Board of Trustees of said City to mean par and accrued interest to the date of delivery of said bonds in addition to the premium offered, whether the bids or proposals set forth the same explicitly or not.

The said bonds will be ready for delivery on or about July 1st, 1911, and will be delivered at the City Treasurer's office in the City of Glendale, California, or at any designated place, upon the payment by the purchaser of all expenses incurred by the delivery of the bonds and transfer of the money necessary to make delivery and payment equivalent to a transaction at the office of the City Treasurer in the said City of Glendale. All bids or proposals providing for delivery at any place other than the City of Glendale, California, will be construed by the Board of Trustees to mean the price bid in addition to the expenses of delivery, whether the bid or proposal sets forth the same explicitly or not. With each proposal or bid must be submitted a certified check drawn upon some bank in the State of California, payable to the order of the City Treasurer of the City of Glendale, for the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty ($250.00) Dollars, as a guarantee that the bidder will purchase and pay for said bonds in accordance with his proposal in the event the bid is accepted. The Board of Trustees of said City reserves the right to reject any and all bids or proposals.

RAILROAD GOSSIP.

The project for a new electric railway on the east side along Verdugo road or thereabouts, is not a new one. Mr. F. W. McIntyre and a few other property owners have in conjunction with the owners of the "Hawes" ranch on Verdugo road south of the city limits, been working on it for months. Recently Mr. E. D. Goode, who can't help promoting railroads has joined in with these parties and assisted in giving the project new life. The plans are as yet, however, very indefinite and while they will probably be carried out in a general way in the not distant future, it is not a matter of "sixty or ninety" days, as recently announced in a Los Angeles paper. One route from Verdugo road over to Glendale avenue contemplates following along the line of what would be Eighth street if opened through. Some of the property owners are quite willing to open this street while the position of others is unknown. Its opening through to Verdugo road would in itself be a matter of great value to the section directly interested, and it is to be hoped that it may be pushed through whether it is immediately followed by a car line or not.

ORATORICAL CONTEST.

At the high school auditorium tonight (Friday) will occur the second annual oratorical contest between the classes. The prize is to be a twenty-dollar gold piece. The following are the contestants that have been selected by the various classes, after contests within the classes: Seniors Dwight Stephenson; juniors, Harold Story; sophomore, Alma Turner; freshmen, Jennie Boring.

There will be an admission fee of 25 cents charged, with no reserved seats.

His System of Self Defense.

"Have you ever studied the art of self defense?" said a young fellow to a man of magnificent physique and noble bearing.

The elder man looked at his questioner with a quiet smile and then answered thoughtfully:

"Yes, I have studied and practiced it."

"Ah!" said the other eagerly. "Whose system did you adopt?"

"Solomon's," was the reply.

Somewhat abashed, the youth stammered out: "Solomon's! What is the special point of his system of training?"

"Briefly this," replied the other; "'A soft answer turneth away wrath.'"

For the moment the young man felt an inclination to laugh and looked at his friend anxiously to see whether he was serious. But a glance at the accomplished athlete was enough, and soon a very different set of feelings came over the youth as his muscular companion added, with silent emphasis, "Try it."—Christian Endeavor World.

The "Green Flash" at Sunset.

A correspondent writes that during the course of a voyage when midway between Marseilles and the strait of Bonifacio a "green flash" was seen at sunset. The sky was perfectly clear after a cloudless day, with little wind. As the sun approached the horizon the line 'twixt sea and sky for about forty-five degrees each side of the sun became suffused with a rich dull rose pink, and the waves reflected a marvelous ruby shade on their surfaces facing the sunset, while the other faces were an opalescent blue or green from the upper sky. The two colors flashed and changed in a marvelous way. Such intensity of coloring had never been seen by those on board. The sun set clean into the sea, and about ten (or less) seconds after it had disappeared a bright green single flash, just like a railway signal lamp, but brighter far, met our view and rewarded our watching for it.—Symons' Meteorological Magazine.

A Good Creed.

To be able to look every man squarely in the eyes; to make friends and hold them; to keep clean of mind and body; to smile at ill fortune; to laugh at my mistakes; to frown when temptation comes avisiting; to be ready with a word of cheer when that word will help; to strive to develop to the utmost the heart, head and hand qualities endowed by the Ruler over all; to hold all women in respect and to love one; to weave the thread of eternal optimism into the lives of all with whom I may come in contact; to worship nature and the Great Spirit that conceived it all—in a word, to play the game of life with a steady hand and a qualmless conscience and a real desire to be of service—that is my religion. And, say, if I can live up to the mark, don't you think I've corralled about all the creed that is necessary?—Backbone Monthly.

A Stream of Water.

A high pressure jet of water will bowl over a man as easily as a box of matches and leave him half stunned. It will even turn a bullet from its path. Experiments have shown that a jet of water can be produced at such a high pressure that it becomes practically a bar of iron. Swords have been blunted in attempting to cut through these extra high pressure jets. Some years ago an armed thief attempted to hold up a high official of the Bank of England in his private office. The official managed to get out of the room unharmed and locked the door. A resourceful attendant brought the fire hose. He opened the door sufficiently to insert the nozzle. In a few minutes the would be thief was picked up senseless.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Lion and the Lamb.

He was a gentleman of the old school—never mind his wrinkled brown skin and wrinkled brown clothes—and it was with the most distinguished politeness that he gave his order to the butcher man:

"De madam say please to cut her two lam' chops fum de lion, suh."

The butcher man jerked a loin from a hook, and his customer watched him cut into it. And a waiting woman said to herself:

"Addition forty-eleven to the literature of the lion and the lamb."—Washington Star.

His Denomination.

Dean de Moulin of Trinity cathedral told this bright little story during one of his delightful talks not long ago:

A man was asked to what religious denomination he belonged.

He thought it over.

"Why," he presently replied, "I believe it is the Episcopal church I stay away from."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Misinterpreted Question.

A young Canadian visited Washington one winter to spend the holidays with a pretty cousin and her family. As he was motoring with his pretty cousin one afternoon she said to him:

"Do you have reindeer in Canada?"

"No, darling," he answered quickly. "At this season it always snows."

He Wasn't Afraid.

When Bishop Phillips Brooks was "commanded," as the phrase goes, to speak before the queen some one asked if he was afraid. "No," he replied, smiling; "I have preached before my mother."

Not Serious.

"Husband, I found a lock of hair among your old papers. I never gave it to you."

"You needn't worry. I don't remember who did."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Members of the Woman's Federation of Clubs will regret sincerely the death of Mrs. George Letteau, president of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club. Mrs. Letteau's death resulting from a stroke of apoplexy brought on from over activity in behalf of a flower festival which her club was giving, was a great shock to the members, occurring as it did while she was taking a prominent part in the festival last Friday afternoon.

It is chiefly owing to Mrs. Letteau's efforts the Sierra Madre ladies have their handsome new club house.

Mrs. P. Harrison of the San Fernando road, is entertaining her son and wife from the East for several weeks.

Don S. Erskine is entertaining his sister, Miss Helen Erskine, of Imperial City, Cal., at his home on Brand boulevard.

Dr. E. F. Tholen has purchased a fine new auto in which to make his trips through the valley. He has done away with "the old bay mare."

William Stuttsman who left recently for a trip to Portland, Ore., returned to his home here this week. While away he visited his daughter, Mrs. Strohm.

The Dutton residence at the corner of Brand boulevard and Laurel street is now occupied, Mr. Story, the Tropico druggist, with his family having moved in this week.

The office of Justice of the Peace George C. Melrose, has been moved from his home on Cypress avenue to the city hall, intersection San Fernando road and Central.

Miss Pearl Harrison of this place rendered several vocal solos at the entertainment given by the Glendale Valley Improvement association in Glendale Tuesday evening.

The people of Tropico were thinking of calling Tropico the "Gem City," of Southern California, but it has been learned that Monrovia has long been traveling under that name.

Rev. M. M. Eshelman will go as a delegate of the church of the Brethren of Southern California to the annual general conference of that church to be held at St. Joseph, Missouri, June next.

Improvements to the Tropico city hall are now about completed. Partitions have been made for the several parties whose business headquarters are there and the city dads' "stall," is being fitted up in great shape.

James Rich and S. A. McNutt have purchased the feed and fuel yard of Peter Gabaig on San Fernando road. Mr. Rich is well known here, but Mr. McNutt is a recent arrival here. He comes from Knoxville, Tenn.

Nothing but words of satisfaction were heard on the streets of Tropico this week as to the rains we have been having. It seems that everyone is wise enough to see that "Every little bit helps," and they really seemed grateful for the downpour.

Evangelist H. B. Ireland and wife, who were working here several weeks ago, and who have just finished a series of very successful revival services in Santa Paula, passed Monday evening with Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Botkin of Central avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Ireland started a series of special services at San Jacinto Tuesday evening.

Edward Weston, proprietor of the Bungalow studio, has just finished two very remarkable photographs. One is a panoramic view of Tropico and surrounding country, and the other is a photo of the same character of Glendale and vicinity. These pictures are about five by fourteen inches and will be on sale at stores in this place and Glendale next week.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Thursday Afternoon Club was entertained April 20 at the home of Mrs. Edward Ayers. Mrs. L. C. Rice and Mrs. Mary McLean assisted as hostesses. Mrs. A. L. Conrad had charge of the program, and gave a splendid report of the work accomplished the past year by clubs in the southern part of this state.

Mrs. John Hobbs and Mrs. Andy Stevenson rendered a vocal duet which was very much enjoyed.

The next meeting of this club will be held at the home of Mrs. David H. Imler, on May 2. Every club member should be present, as the annual election of officers will occur at this time.

TROPICO METHODIST NOTES.

A series of three sermons on "Studies in Methodism," will be started in this church next Sunday morning. The first, which will be given next Sunday morning, will be "Methodism, a Factor in American Civilization." May 7, "The Methodist Church and the Republic." May 14th, "What Methodism Stands For."

The Woman's Home Missionary Society met with Mrs. Cole on West Park avenue, Tuesday afternoon.

Next Friday evening, May 5th, Rev. F. D. Mather, district superintendent, will hold the third quarterly conference in this church. Reports for the year thus far will be given.

WHEN THE "BEER ARCH" CAME AROUND.

Andrew Stevenson, the Tropico butcher, is trying hard to decide whether or not he will bring suit against a Los Angeles brewing company for two wheels which were broken from his wagon Tuesday. It seems that Andy's horse was standing on Cypress avenue west of San Fernando road, when an automobile "arch" came whizzing by. Andy's horse took fright and proceeded to "leave here." After a number of circus stunts the horse tried to tear down the telephone pole, but, unfortunately, the wheels of the wagon proved to be the more easily broken. All suggestions as to the advisability of bringing suit will be kindly received.

The funny part of the affair is that the "arch" was running in Tropico in violation of the newly-made city ordinance. F. H. Davis made an unsuccessful attempt to have the fire-water wagon driven out of town, but, somehow, he was unabel to make the city marshal see the matter in the light in which he saw it.

WEST GLENDALE

Mrs. Laura Scamman has sold her home on Milford street, and will spend some time at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Klein were guests of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Endres of Los Angeles on Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Everett and family of Corona were guests of their brother, J. W. Everett, 1509 Hawthorne street.

Mrs. Frank Johnson of Boyle Heights was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Parker, the first part of the week.

Mrs. R. W. Hammond, who has been seriously ill for the past week, is convalescing though still under the care of her nurse, Miss Bertha Neff.

The many friends of Mrs. C. E. Clay 1517 Ivy street, will be pleased to hear of her recovery. The lady was threatened with a severe case of appendicitis, but under the skilful treatment of Dr. Knox and careful nursing the attack was warded off.

The Seventh Day Adventist Ladies Prayer Band will meet with Mrs. Wm Hyatt, West Fourth St., Wednesday, May 3rd, 2:30 p. m. In last week's issue this band was designated as the Ladies' Caravan. The item was sent in by phone and as a consequence was misunderstood.

May 5th at the high school auditorium. Don't forget. Bring all your friends and neighbors. It's not going to be merely a little country school entertainment, but an entertainment of the highest character and one that everybody can enjoy. Mrs. Gibson, the teacher, children and every one connected have been working so faithfully that all who can should turn out and show their appreciation. Mrs Shank will render some of her choicest vocal selections.

It was our pleasure to listen to the excellent entertainment given by the Valley Improvement Association at K. of P. hall on Tuesday evening and which we greatly enjoyed. The many talks given by different citizens on the planting of trees along the different streets, and otherwise beautifying the city, were very interesting. The idea of utilizing the vacant corners of the yards of the different schools, by planting different trees and flowers was an excellent one, and should be carried out if possible.

Mr. J. L. Russ received the sad news of the death of his mother in Chicago recently. Mrs. Russ has been a sufferer from cancer for a number of months, but bore her sufferings with the utmost fortitude and in all her letters to the family never a word of complaint or anything in reference to her pain. But instead, they were always full of cheerful expressions and a thought of all others except herself. Mrs. Russ leaves besides Mr. J. L. Russ of Glendale, sons and daughters in the East and a daughter, Mrs. Will Blake of Oregon.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

On Wednesday evening, April 19, a very pleasant surprise was given Irving Everett at his home on Hawthorne street in honor of the young man's fourteenth birthday. Fourteen young gents and ladies passed the hours away with games and music and later on did justice to dainty refreshments that were served, consisting of chocolate and wafers, fruit, candy, etc., and of course the regulation birthday cake, that was beautifully decorated and ornamented with fourteen candles. The young man, who is very popular, received presents and the well wishes of all his friends.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association of the West Glendale school was held on Thursday, April 20th. A large number of mothers was present who listened with great interest to the splendid talk given by Mrs. Porter of Huntington Park. Mrs. Porter's address dealt with the "Furnishing of Scholarships to Needy Children," a subject that is arousing much interest in not only all the public schools, but by every one at all interested in the welfare of the children.

Mrs. MacMullin delighted those present with a solo in her usually charming style, and the school orchestra furnished some excellent selections. Refreshments were served at the close.

THE BONNY TOWN OF GLENDALE.

Oh, bonny Glendale has sprung up in the West,
Through all the fair valley her name sounds the best.
Surrounded by mountains, a river between,
Which only when raining can ever be seen.

Oh, bonny Glendale, your beauty sublime
Not only in flowers, but fruit o' the vine,
Your orchards o' fruit trees are good to behold,
And yield to their owners a harvest o' gold.

Oh, bonny Glendale, with your broad spreading palm,
And tall eucalyptus so stately and calm,
Your blue sky and mountains are wondrous to see,
And rival the beauties o' fair Italy.

—Sarah Olin in Stylus.

LOS ANGELES Y. M. C. A.

The report of the Los Angeles Young Men's Christian Association for 1910 is an eye-opener to those not in close touch with its educational work. There were 1,442 different men and boys in actual class work in the educational department. The ages run from 9 to 72 years, 27 nationalities are represented, and 117 occupations are required to show the kind of students who take advantage of the work.

The Los Angeles Association, in addition to a large number of evening classes, has day work in automobiling, machine shop practice, assaying, chemistry, and commercial, grammar grade and high school subjects.

THE LARK ELLEN NEWS AND WORKING BOYS HOME.

A Worthy Institution.

This home which has grown in twenty years from a very small beginning to its present dimensions, is doing an excellent work among the homeless boys of Los Angeles. The home owns the premises at 438 East Twentieth street, and has recently purchased a fifteen-acre tract in Eagle Rock, payin gdown $3500 and incurring a mortgage indebtedness for $8000. The plans for this home are therefore ambitious and the promise for its increased influence for good are very bright. An extra effort is to be made during the first week of May to raise a sum of money with which to carry on the institution. Contributions for this worthy purpose may be sent to Mrs. Mary C. Housel, president, Eleventh and Main, Los Angeles; Mrs. B. F. Land, Jr., secretary, 2328 South Wall street, Los Angeles or to the NEWS office.

LOS ANGELES THEATRES

HAMBURGER'S MAJESTIC.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will apear as dual stars in an engagement at Hamburger's Majestic Theater for eight performances, beginning next Monday, May 1. Their repertoire will be as follows: Monday night, "Macbeth"; Tuesday night, "The Taming of the Shrew"; Wednesday matinee and night, "Romeo and Juliet"; Thursday night, "The Merchant of Venice"; Friday night, "Twelfth Night"; Saturday matinee, "As You Like It"; Saturday night, "Hamlet." The productions for each of these Shakespearian plays are being carried by the company complete in every detail, direct from their successful New York engagement, and the supporting company is made up largely of players who have been associated with the stars for several seasons. One of the notable features of the engagement is the production of "Macbeth," upon which Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe worked for two years before they had the details perfected to suit their exacting demands. Owing to the elaborate character of the productions, the curtain will rise each night at 8 o'clock sharp, and each matinee at 2 o'clock, and late arrivals will not be seated during the acts.

BURBANK.

"Paid in Full," the famous American drama which was played three weeks at the Burbank Theater last summer to about the biggest business in the history of the house, will be revived for the week beginning with the matinee Sunday. This is in response to a great number of requests which have been received from time to time ever since the prvious production.

Probably no play has ever made such a strong impression upon the playgoing public, and, incidentally, had such a remarkable effect on the tendency of the drama itself, as has "Paid in Full." It is a stage picture of real life, and proves that the public does not want mock heroics all the time. Romance has its place, but it is when the people see men and women like themselves moving in scenes of logical sequence that they are most strongly imprssed. At least, this is the general impression which the success of "Paid in Full" has made upon theatrical managers and playwrights.

It will be an almost entirely new cast from the "Paid in Full" of last season. Frank Camp will be Joe Brooks; David Landau, Jimsy; David Hartford, Capt. Williams; Charles Ruggles, Sato; Ida Adair, Emma; Florence Oberle, Mrs. Harris; and Suzanne Willa, Beth. These assignments are regarded by the Burbank management as ideal.

An interesting feature of "Paid in Full" will be the first appearance of the work of the new scenic artist, Robert Brunton, who will have opportunities, in the ictures of the Harlem flat, the luxurious hotel and the sea captain's cabin, for unique and artistic effects.

THEATRE PARTY.

A theatre party made up by the local lodge of the Fraternal Brotherhood enjoyed a Bernhardt performance at the Mason last Friday evening, witnessing that great actress in the character of "Madame X." The party consisted of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell and Miss Loraine Mitchell; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Benson, Miss Mabel Benson and Mr. Warren Benson; Mrs. C. E. Shaver; Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Hunt; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. MacMullin; Mrs Jessie A. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, Mr. C. H. Cushing, Mr. Archie Shaver, Mr. C. Klamm.
